Combined Discipline:

This format for finals will be held according to the Olympic-Format, which will also be performed at the Buenos Aires Youth Olympic Games 2018 and the Tokyo Olympic Games 2020.

All athletes taking part in the Combined Competition need to compete in every discipline of the WCH. The six best male and the six best female competitors in the overall ranking for Lead, Speed and Bouldering will then move on to the Combined Finals on Sunday, September 16th. For this ranking the athlete's results in each discipline will be multiplied with each other and the six athletes with the lowest score qualify for finals. The sequence of disciplines in the final round will be 1 – Speed, 2 – Boulder, 3 – Lead.

Combined Extra-Quota:

In order to offer the possibility to preserve the places for the specialists of the three disciplines, the IFSC has decided to allocate to each National Federation a special extra-quota of 1 athlete for gender competing in the combined. This means that as for IFSC rules, the WCH usual quota is 5 athletes per gender/category, plus 1 additional quota for athletes registered for the combined. These combined athletes will be added to the startlist of each discipline (after confirmation onsite at the registration center) and they will compete in all the three disciplines. Athletes registered under regular quota on the 3 disciplines, they will be considered as competing for the combined as well, after confirmation of their registration onsite.
